There was a similar "round-up" of uspected disloyalists at Mount Olive last night. As a feature of the dem-onstration Peter Heine, a merchant, was hauled from a neighbor's basent and made to kiss each of the 48 stars in the flag.

The demonstration began after two citizens of the town fought in Henry Caster's saloon as a result of an argument over the Government's war policies. It was said that several regular customers of the saloon took the part of a man accused of disloy-

Western Germany Industrial Organs Denounce President and Call Address Vague.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 15 (By A. P.). -Of the German neswpapers, the Berlin Tageblatt, the Vossiche Zeitung, Vorwaerts, the Lokal Anzeiger, the Frankfurter Zeltung, the Koelnische Zeitung and the Weser Zeitung of Bremen have printed President Wilson's address in full. The Koelnische Volks Zeitung addresses to President Wilson an editorial longer than the summary of his speech. which it prints. The editorial admits that the President shows an honest endeavor toward peace, but it regrets it is not a just peace. Not Warlike Speech.

The Frankfurter Zeitung says:
"President Wilson's latest speech is not a warlike speech. It is more than its predecessors, namely, a speech striving to work in the inter est of peace. The sole purpose of its warlike phrases is to emphasize the strength of unconquered America and add weight to its voice in the concert of nations.

The principles summed up by President Wilson under four heads are so vague that hardly any power need oppose them, but the speeches of Lloyd George and Asquith have revealed anew that the Entente itwelf is still unable to find the courage for a peace by a compromise age for a peace by a compromise agreement. The view of peace by understanding, as expressed by Mr. Wilson, is even today shared by the Richestag majority which would today be still stronger in its attitude if not only President Wilson but the other Entente statesmen would also show their practical readness for "President Wilson," it says. "would "President Wilson," it says."

Some years ago, the industries of Alabama were well nigh entirely dependent upon individual steam power plants-nearly all of them comparatively small. Among these were the collieries of the State. The operators were satisfied that they could burn their own coal for power surposes of various sorts far cheaper than they could buy electrical enthey have ceased to utilize their own fuel and they are buying current from a great public utility which, by the way, is producing, during the dry season, a large measure of its energy at steam plants—the biggest of which gets its fuel at its own back > hundred feet away. Water power is the mainstay for this far-flung system during most of the year. "Up in the Scranton and Wilkes. coal regions of Pennsylvania there are now installed kindred steam-power stations which distribute electricity to the neighboring coal mines and on to Bethlehem to monster steel works, etc., located there. The coal operators find they can save money by buying current instead of using the coal they mine own power outfits. central stations just mentioned are burning culm, so long considered refuse, of which there are immense piles containing many millions of tons. By reason of chain grates and other special equipment, this gran-ular or powdered fuel can be burned very efficiently, and as its combus tion is extremely rapid and well nigh complete the resulting heat is in tense. Culm, at the mine, brings ordinarily about 10 cents a ton, and no coal delivered at any of our manufacturing centers or cities sells for less than $3 a ton.

"The Norfolk & Western Railroad has a section of its line running right through a famous coal region in West Virginia for a distance of some-thing like 30 miles. Physical conditions forced the road to abandon steam propulsion even though having at its command locomotives of the most modern and powerful types. It decided to resort to electrification purpose at a single big central station. The electrical service has proved a revelation, and 12 electric locomotives are doing today a vol-ume of service that could not be handled by 34 Mallet engines of the well-known monster freight type.

Electrical Engines are More Powerful.
"For long-distance electrical drive we have the era-marking 400-mile stretch of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway on its Rocky Mountain Division. The story is familian to most of our readers of how efficiently and economically this division is run by reason of the elimination of the steam drive and the utilization of water power, as a primary source of energy. The electrical engine handles three and a half times as many ton-miles per month as the steam locomotive, and the electric engine, by reason of its faster running and capacity to pull heavier trains, cuts the time to do a given business by quite 30 per cent. Finally, when the electric tractor is descending a grade it becomes a generator of energy instead of a user of current, and to just that extent puts electricity back into the line to help another train up a hill. "To bring these facts to a focus and to point to their ultimate effect, they show that there is absolutely no technical reason why great power plants should not be located, in the absence of available waterpower, in the heart of our various coal fields, and there generate at the mine mouth electrical energy for distribution over zones having a radius of four or five hundred miles. The cost burned in a locomotive is only half

Lewis J. Spence,

A. G. Little,

Senator Assails President for Calling Democrats to White House Conference.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (By A ?.).-President Wilson was charged with deliberately injecting politics into the controversy of war efficiency by Senator Weeks, a Republican member of the Military Committee in a speech today vigorously criticizing the War Department and other branches of the Government. tee's War Cabinet and Munitions Director bills as a constructive non-partisan effort to aid and not embarrass President Wilson in unify-ing America's war force, Senator Weeks detailed delays and difficul-ties of the Government's military preparations. He declared that lack f a central body to make and direct all Government plans is largely responsible for present and past trou-

Charge Against President.

In his charge against President Vilson, the Senator said: "Not a question indicating partinship was raised until the President deliberately injected politics into the situation by an attack upon the chairman of the committee (Senator and the committee itself, and by calling to the White House many Democratic party leaders, not for consultation purposes, but to insist that a discussion of this question on the floor of the Senate be prevented if possible. Have we come to such pass that the action of the most mportant committee in Congress at this time is to be forbidden by the army achievements:

"Neither do I wish to unjustly o inreservedly criticise the head of the War Department. He has had to deal with a multitude of questions, the disposal of many of which meet my approval. It would require too much time to enumerate. The Secretary has done that effectively in his speech made to the committee,

"If I were to criticise the Secretary personally it would be that he was ndertaking to do too many things himself, some of which might have een left to subordinates.

"If I were to make a further critcism, it would relate to his temperamental relationship to the war. Doubtless he himself would admit that he is a pacifist by nature. For example, even now he is opposed to universal military training, and I cannot divorce myself from the con-clusion, based on his own testimony, that he has been inclined to plan for prosecution of the war-and this condition has to some degree per-meated the department—on the basis that we are 3000 miles away from the front, instead of hastening preparation with all the vigor we would exercise if our borders were the bat-

Says Baker Was Flippant.

Referring to Baker's reply when asked by the committee if other men could not have done things bet ter, that he did not know all the men in the world and could not judge their capabilities, Senator Weeks said the answer was "some what flippant" and that it is impossible to expect a department whose head makes such a statement, to make many changes which an outside investigation have shown o be necessary.

"One of the notable features of the present situation." Senator Weeks continued, "is the virulence added in attacking those who favor the committee's plan (of centralization). They are referred to as plotters, mischievous meddlers and even as servitors of the enemy. Every means of false suggestion has been sed to discredit a sincere and loyal attempt to make a change which will materially increase the efficiency of our war administration."

Asserting that it is "physically impossible" for the President to individually co-ordinate and direct all of the Government's functions, Senator

"Can it be possible that the Presi dent will be embarrassed by such a Cabinet? It would seem as if he would be embarrassed to a greater extent by a perpetuation of the dis-jointed system which now exists, a system which failed to produce ships. notwithstanding the shipping plans; which has failed to deliver coal, notwithstanding the unbounded coal supply we have; which has been responsible for a failure to protect our soldiers against sickness and furnish them with suitable clothing.

"We are the inventors and leaders in airplanes, and yet we have no airplanes. We have the greatest steel works in the world, and yet we have lew guns. We lead the world in automobile manufacture, yet we are just commencing to obtain motor trucks, and, worst of all, the system we have is responsible for camp hospitals not having heat, water or sewerage."

Furnishing of food to the army, Senator Weeks said, has been a tremendous success, due to Gen. Sharpe. He also praised Gen. Crozier, Chief of Ordnance, saying he had often asked Congress for more ordnance appropriations, but that sentiment in the country prevented appropriations. Gen. Crozier, however, he de-clared, was partly responsible for deciencies in machine guns and ligh

Council to Oppose Removal by Mayor.

A movement to prevent the ouster of East St. Louis Fire and Police Commissioners by Mayor Mollman was started today by business men and leaders in civic affairs there. Conrad Reeb, president of the southern Illinois National Bank, president of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Financial Committee of the Committee of One Hundred, announced that $27. 800 raised by that committee for the Fire and Police Departments would not be turned over to the city if the Police Board were removed.

Mayor Mollman declared that during the day he would notify the Chamber of Commerce, looking to commissioners, J. F. Reid, E. J. Coffey and Fred Giessing, of their removal. Reid, who is president of the Police Board, announced at the same time that the board would re- hois field, was the arrangement tosist removal before the City Coun- day for a conference March 9 with He asserted he did not believe the Councilmen would support the Mayor in such an action.

The Mayor stated he would remove he Commissioners because they were not in harmony with him. Reid asserted that the reason they were not in harmony was because the board would not play politics in the Fire and Police Departments to suit Mollman, and because Mollman, in retaliation, had planned to discredit the board.

FOLK ARRANGES

Conference With Presidents of 14 Lines Comprising Terminal to Be Held March 9.

The first active step taken by Joseph W. Folk, new counsel for the the elimination of the bridge arbitrary of 20 cents a ton on coal coming into St. Louis from the Illithe presidents of the 14 proprietary lines comprising the Terminal Railroad Association.

The decision for the conference followed a meeting of Folk with B. F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific. Although Folk declined to go into the details of their conver sation, it is known that they discussed the arbitrary and the anrounced determination of the Chamher of Commerce to waste no time or effort in obtaining its abolition, if not by agreement of the railroads, by the institution of proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Com-

Bush, in a statement sent to news papers yesterday, took the position that there was no manner in which the arbitrary could be abolished un-less East St. Louis, which profits from it through a freight rate on coal of 20 cents a ton less than the St. Louis rate, would join in the effort to make the rates to both cities the same.

His position was that the rates from the Illinois fields to East St. Louis were solely under the jurisdicion of the Illinois Public Utilities Commission, while the rates to St. ouis were under the jurisdiction of he Interstate Commerce Commis ion, and that the Illinois commission had no jurisdiction over the rates to St. Louis, and the Interstate liction over the rates to East St.

Louis.
Although none of the railroad executives has indicated that he would favor abolishing the arbitrary, it has been known in railroad circles for several months that the heads of the Western trunk lines, among which are the Missouri Pacific, the Frisco and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, have begun to doubt that the arbitrary is to their advantage, although they are members of the Terminal Association. Western Roads Lose.

Folk, in his speech at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday, ointed out that the arbitrary charged for hauling freight across he Mississippi at St. Louis had cost he Western roads much business nany shippers, to avoid the arbirary, routing their freight another

It is considered probable that a the conference March 9 the railroad presidents will not be a unit in their pposition to abolishing the arbi-

The conference is not intended to be one at which opposing interests will be heard by the heads of the railroads, Folk not going into it with the idea of trying his case before the ments and attempt to bring the railroad executives to his point of view, but it is understood that if he does not succeed in getting them to voluntarily remove the arbitrary, he will be ready within a short time to go before the Interstate Commerce

President Wilson's Words Awakening Teuton Masses

Countless scraps of paper, bearing in German, Polish, Czech and Slavic the words of the far-off American President are being furtively passed from hand to hand along the German and Austrian battle lines and through the mines and factories of the Central Empires. The despised and ridiculed Bolsheviki, according to U. S. Senator Stone, are printing and sending into Mitteleuropa these American messages of sympathy for the Teutonic peoples under the autocratic yoke, and the circulation of these tracts may have had its part in rousing the Austrian and German peoples to the brief protest of the strikes of a few days ago. Berlin, at any rate, blamed America for the strikes, and sentenced two British aviators to ten years in jail for dropping the Wilsonian gospel like manna from the heavens on the wilderness of the Kaiserdom. This subject is covered in a most graphic manner in one of the leading articles in THE LITERARY DIGEST. for February 16th.

"The Digest" the Magazine for Thinking People

Every day that passes discloses more and more clearly the fact that the war in which the democracies of the world are engaged is a peoples' war, that it is being fought out not for the benefit of the classes but of the masses, that a new birth of freedom may come to the world with its ending. For this reason it is absolutely obligatory for every thinking man and woman, upon whom in the aggregate the destinies of this nation depend, to make certain of accurate and unbiased knowledge of what is being done, at the front and in the thousand coordinated energies now set on foot at home. The one news-magazine that gives you the facts, and nothing but the facts, without fear or favor, is THE LITERARY DIGEST. Read it, this week and every week, and be sure that your judgment and action are based on intelligent understanding.

R. G .- First batch of yeast must the made with some kind of yeast. Then keep about 1 cupful of dough; cover it so it will not form a crust on top. It must not be kept on the ice, however, as the object is to have it become sour. It must also be 4 or 5 days' old before using: then mix it with the bread dough as you would yeast, having the dough as you would yeast, having the dough rather soft at night; next morning add more flour and even a little water, after which it is made into loaves. Let it rise again. (It is better to put package of yeast in draw-er or on cupboard shelf than to keep it air-tight, as yeast is a liv-ing plant and should have air, or it loses its raising power.)

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The President's Address. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have just finished reading the President's address, and it is most pleasingsource of the greatest satisfaction to observe that he has come into his own. He mounts to heights never even approached in any of his previous addresses on the subject. He speaks like a big man, giving words to big thoughts, in a big way. Happily his address is free from any evilence of malice or suggestion of hatesomething that has absolutely no place in the consideration or solution of great is-sues, and surely the one he has just discussed is so stupendous as to be without a parallel in the history of the world.

THE SIGN-PAINTER'S LAMENT. TE all are bound to suffer ills. To taste of life's most bitter pills, And bow to Him above who wills That which for us is best; But all that we must undergo Is little more than just the woe Of some untimely jest.

We paint a pretty, glowing sign That sparkles forth like flowing wine And to ourselves exclaim, " 'Tis fine-A masterpiece, indeed: One which the passing populace, Of ev'ry land and ev'ry race, Will gladly pause to read."

But then some hunter slinks along, Some vagabond, unskilled in song, Who spies the sign and cries, "'Tis wrong! Such work will drive me mad-'Out, out, damned spot!' Apostrophe, Misused, abused, persistently-Ye gods, that's surely bad!"

And thus rewarded for our pains, We connoisseurs of paints and stains, And all that thereunto pertains, Prepare for what's to come: For, though our sign's apostrophized. It soon will be McAdamized. And then its race is run.

Although the illustrations and designs have been hung in the corridors, where they are rather secluded, Mr. Fitzpatrick's cartoons have attracted no end of attention. His subjects are as follows: 'Don't Sneer,' 'The Lure,' and 'Now, All Together.' ' Thanks, Maude. If they made Chicago sit up after being hung where it was hard to get at them, we are all the more

The mob which checked up Staunton, Ill., on the war the other night required all those who could play any kind of a musical instrument and whose lovalty was in doubt to bring out whatever it was and render "The Star Spangled Banner." This recalls some of the good time the spirit of '76 had with the Tories. Keeping body and soul together at such a time as this, is really nothing to keeping one's heart and one's home apart. Somebody in Staunton has probably been reading the history of Connecticut.

THE ARBITRARY.

E are told that the arbitrary can be absolutely done away with now because there is a different spirit afoot in the world than there was when the Interstate Commerce Commission sustained part of the arbitrary as something equitable and fair.

We would believe that quicker if there were more evidences of the new spirit working in the Terminal Association. If this spirit, as we are assured, permeates the very air, then the Terminal Association cannot have altogether escaped it, because we all breathe the air alike.

Possibly we do the Terminal Association an injus tice, and sitting at the port holes of its great stronghold on Eighteenth street these balmy mornings it really does feel the influence of the new spirit in the air and wishes to say something.

We sincerely hope that is so. When the United Railways, which were twenty-five years behind the times thirty days ago, are found crowding the leaders in the great pageant of progress, it is high time to look out for the Terminal Association fleeing the Dark Ages.

A Chicago circular offering a reward for an embezzler says in one paragraph:

We believe the most likely place to find him, however, is in the East, probably New York City, or perhaps Dallas, Tex. The dividing line between East and West has been humorously located a good many times, but we cheer-

. . . HISTORY, REPEATER. UT of a sky that mirrored flame, Past all the spirit host, To soothe the weary ruler came A gaunt, gray, gangling ghost, And down he slumped his gawky frame At his old favorite post. Still simple as a little child The ghost crossed leg on knee. 'Don't worry, son," Abe Lincoln smiled,

"They talked like that of me!"

The breeze from out the Capitol Blew words in scorning meant, As "Such ineptness must appal!" "Unwise!" "Incompetent! "Usurper!" "Weaker than a doll!" "On our destruction bent!" But, as there sped each poisoned shaft, The ghost grinned cheerfully. "Don't worry, son," Abe Lincoln laughed. "They said much worse of me!"

Upon the desk the papers piled-Pandora's evil pack; The pacifist petition mild; The savage, hot attack. But still the ghost, gay as a child, Slapped Wilson on the back. "I see the breed is just the same." Abe Lincoln laughed in glee. "Don't worry, son! It's just the game They tried in vain on me." -JOHN O'KEEFE in New York World. The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leuding publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

PAYING THE WAR BILL COL. GEORGE HARVEY in the North Ame

M ONEY is the sinews of war. Bion said it, Cicero and Plutarch confirmed it, and innumerble writers and orators since have repeated it. we shall not challenge it, but rather observe that, not challenge it, but rather observe that, since that is so, those sinews should be used with the utmost possible efficiency; neither permitted to relax nor strained to the breaking-point. Our fortunes should be employed in the service of the State commensurately with our lives; whether in $1,000,000 bond subscriptions or in 25-cent Thrift Stamps.

There is a prospect that this will be done. Talk now prevails of war expenditures amounting to $20,000,000,000, and it is not improbable that it will be realized. But what will that mean in comparison with the expenditure of human lives? Recent reports of exceptional authenticity tell us that thus far in this war Germany has lost in killed, permanently disabled and prisoners no fewer than 4,000,000 men. Now the economic value of an able-bodied man to the community and the State is commonly estimated at $5000. On that basis, then, Germany has suffered in men a loss equivalent to $20,-000,000,000. In view of that, we shall not grudge the expenditure of the latter sum for the defeat and destruction of the infernal system which has brought this incomparable catastrophe upon us and upon

So far as the amount of prospective exenditure is concerned, there is no penditure is concerned, there is no occa-sion to worry over it or to talk of impending bankruptcy. It would take several times twenty billions, vast as that sum is, to bankrupt or even to embarrass this na-tion; provided always that the affairs of the nation are directed with business com-mon sense. Twenty billions is a large sum but it is not overwhelming. It is actually not as large, relatively, as some former expenditures and indebtedness. Thus in the four years of the Civil War we spent in round numbers $4,000,000,000. Our total national wealth was then probably less than $20,000,000,000; at the beginning of the war it was officially com-puted at less than $17,000,000,000. Reckoning expenditures at four and wealth at twenty billions, we spent one-fifth of all we had. Now our national wealth is offi-cially computed to be more than $200,000,-000,000; wherefore, if we spend in this war as much as $20,000,000,000, we shall spend only one-tenth of what we have, or proportionately, only half as much as we spent in the Civil War. Again: Let us suppose, by way of going o an extreme, that we should incur bonded indebtedness of as much as $20,-000,000,000, over and above the vast expenditures which we meet from current taxation. That would be a tremendous debt, far surpassing any public debt of any other nation before the war-indeed, surpassing any three or four of them put to-gether. Yet after all it would not be as large, relatively, as the debt with which we found ourselves burdened at the close of the Civil War; and under which we rose up manfully and cheerfully, with nothing but contemptuous execration for the traitorous weaklings who whined about bankruptcy and repudiation. In 1865 our debt was more than $2,500,000,000. and our wealth was $20,000,000,000 Therefore, we were owing more than 12.5 per cent of all our possessions; and still were entirely solvent and quite prosperous. thank you! Now our wealth is more than $200,000,000,000, so that a debt of $20,-000,000 would be scarcely 10 per cent of t, or 2.5 per cent less than our debt of 52 years ago. Of course the same ratio holds good in computing the per capitaliabilities and assets. A debt of $20,000,-000,000 would mean an average of $200 a head; but the average wealth is $2000 a head. Neither the State which owes $20. 000,000,000 and has $200,000,000;000, the individual who owes $200 and has $2000, can reasonably be considered insolvent or even pecuniarily embarrassed.

Still, the service of such a debt entail a heavy annual burden upon us and upon posterity, men say. Yes. A debt of $20,000,000,000 bearing interest at 4 per ent would call for no less than $800,000,-000 a year. "Prodeegious!" exclaimed Dominie Sampson. Yet it really does not seem so formidable, after all, when we consider that our national income is $45.-000,000,000 a year. The charges for the service of the debt would thus be less than 2 per cent of our income. Or if we apply it the individual instead of to the State. the yearly charge would be an average of $8 a head. But the average income is $450 a head, so that the individual would be paying an income tax of only 1.78 per

Let us not be afraid because our second Liberty Loan has swelled the volume of our war financing to something approximating a score of billions. We score billion country. If the third Lib-erty Loan be needed, of seven or eleven and a half billions more, and if then a fourth and a fifth be needed, the money will be forthcoming. Let no man say that it was not needed to do this, that if we had minded our own business we should not have been attacked nor involved in the war. We did mind our own business, and while scrupulously doing so we were treacherously attacked.

An hour ago she had said good-by to her soldfer husband, her last good-by be-fore he would take his company over seas for active service. At first, with the sweet pain of his kiss still on her lips and those last hurried words burning in her memory, she was glad of the dark, glad to be closed in from the too sympathetic of fellow passengers.
car was lighted by one central gas light, not illumination to make out a single face in all that crowd of passengers. Darkness amidst strange surroundings is apt to take on ter-rors, and Mrs. Trainor, her nerves strung to highest pitch, felt she must do something. Reading was impos-sible and talking to strangers, exchanging complaining comments as to the failure of the electric power and speculation as to how much be hind schedule they would be, was not very appealing.

A sound as of suppressed weeping came from behind her and startled out of her self-brooding she peered over the back of her seat. was curled up in the seat and by the flaunting red tie of her regulation dress, Mrs. Trainor recalled her. The girl had said good-by to a soldier, she remembered asking her husband if he could recognize him in the dim light. With a fellow feeling for this young girl, alone and traveling under unpleasant conditions, she went

"All I can suggest is that this lady share her berth with you.' He moved on. Checking off a tomed light to do it by was all he could manage. He could not be bothered with young ladies in distress. His suggestion was met with silence. Edna, an experienced traveler, knew that to share one's berth with a stranger was at best a risky natter. Abdul Hamid, a Real Sultan From "the Arabian Nights;" His Palace of Mysteries

His Hiding Places of Wealth, His 1000 Revolvers for Personal Use, His Wives and His Ending for Harem Gossips.

BDUL HAMID II, one-time A Sultan of the Ottoman Empire and the man whose shadow once fell across the chancelries of all Europe, is dead. He died the other day a prisoner of his own people in the Palace of Broussa, on the Bosporus—a broken man, forgotten by all the peoples of the continent in the crash and welter of the world

Of the world which ceased to exist in August, 1914, was this Abdul Hamid—the world we now call "old," with its secret councils, its diplomatic intrigues and the playing of pawns represented by millions of helpless men and women. During the 33 years of his supreme power and until the Young Turks unseated him by their revolution in April, 1909, the vulture-like, saturine features of this "Sick Man of Europe" came to be accepted by all world peoples as the conventional embodiment of craft, cruelty, blood lust and double dealing-all that the upturned mus-tache and pointed helmet of William of Hohenzollern stand for to-

Perhaps no character in modern history embraced so many contrary angles, such contradictions and surprising subtleties as that of Ab-dul Hamid. A modern was he when it pleased him to be a modern; yet his instincts were all those of a Sultan of the Arabian Nights -the Sultan with the poisoned cup, the secret hordes of rich jewels and the ghastly closet with the heads of wives hanging all in

By a paradox typically Oriental, nobody while he ruled knew Abdul Hamid nearly as well as Abdul Hamid's secret self was revealed after he was deposed. Agents of the Young Turks made a careful investigation and inventory of the Yildiz Palace—that wonderful and beautiful labyrinth on the shores of the Bosporus where Abdul had lived during his reign. There, in a bewildering succession of secret passage-ways, locked chambers, subterranean stairways and gorgeously furnished harem chambers was revealed the true Abdul Hamid-the man who walked with Death ever at his elbow and laid himself down with fear at night.

IKE some crafty magpie, the master of Yildiz had secreted gorgeous jewels and of different hidden places-in old leather traveling cases, ready to be seized in instant flight; in secretly contrived wall safes, in the bowls of old narghiles or water pipes. More than a million Enpounds - and diamonds, pearls and rubies such as no other monarch ever dreamed of pos-

In fact, there was no bedchamber set apart for his use in the whole palace. When sleep overtook him he selected any one of several hundred couches divans in the palace, placed a revolver under the cushions and trusty eunuchs at the door, and

When the secrets of Yildiz were revealed the Young Turk pioneers discovered in the labyrinths three manikins-exact duplicates of the Sultan—in various places. One of the dummies sat before a writing desk, another was posed at a win-dow looking out on the Bosporus. One can imagine the grin that would have spread below Abdul's beard had he ever found one of these haircloth doubles of his with a bullet or dagger in its back!

In the gardens were discovered a cleverly contrived astronomical observatory, filled with the most modern instruments for star gazing. His majesty was a bit of a scientist, say you? Not at all. The telescope was found to bear on the palaces of his nephews on a hill some distance away. Crafty old Abdul lengthened the reach of his

"Learn the Angles, Then Hit Two Balls," Says World's Greatest Billiard Player.

NO TIME FOR FIGURES

Claims Nothing Is Gained by Reducing Shots to Mathematical Basis.

He's the same Willie Hoppe, only

That seemed to be the concensus of opinion, practically unanimous after the world's balk-line champion had given two exhibitions here yesterday, with Charles C. Peterson, the local favorite, as his opponent, The chief difference between Willie Hoppe of today and the one who visited here last year is that he has taken up the three-cushion game. And you can believe the sharps when they say he's PLAYING threecushions. Interest of the large gal-leries which viewed the champion yesterday was concentrated on his yesterday was concentrated on his angle exhibitions. Hoppe's prowess at balkline is so firmly established that a sigh of relief went up, both afternoon and evening, when he had clicked off his 250th point in each

Then the boys settled back to cushions. Close to Normal Average.

Willie played 50 points of the angle game yesterday and concluded with an average of .98. That's two points shy of the average he is endeavoring to maintain, but what's two points between friends? Students of billiard technique eyed Hoppe closely in the three-cushion exhibition principally because it's an axiom of billiards that the angle game cannot be cipally because it's an axiom of billards that the angle game cannot be played with a balkline stroke.

Hoppe's playing shot that axiom into the scrap heap. The champion uses a bridge for three-cushions just a trifle longer than the one he employs in balkline. The butt of the cue is gripped with the ideatical delicacy he employs in balkline. He gets distance by the force of his wrist and not the entire forcarm.

At the conclusion of the evening performance, Hoppe was asked if he used a "system" in playing three-cushions, His reply was:

"Yes, I hit two balls."

Doesn't Believe in Figures.

Doesn't Believe in Figures. The champion supplemented this with the assertion that the best possible system in 3-cushions is to learn sible system in 3-cushions is to learn the angles, then the stroke and counting your points will be easy. Not a few of the best known angle players have the game figured out on what they claim is a mathematical basis. They determine the angles through measurements, claiming it gives them a sure basis on which to work.

varied from the form he uses in the game at which he is the greatest player in existence. Only in extreme instances does he apply great force in making shots.

He says he doesn't play threcushions enough to affect his balk-line stroke. Withal, he has averaged around one for almost 2000 points at three-cushions. Which gives rise to the question:

the question:
"What can Heppe accomplish at the angle game by giving it as much time and study as he has balkline, if he can maintain such an average with only casual playing? Answer it if you can, De Ore, Kleck-hefer, et. al.

More 3-Cushion Today.

Today's games between Heppe and Peterson have been arranged to give

Today's games between Hoppe and Peterson have been arranged to give the champion a better chance to show his three-cushion ability. Fifty points of the angle game will be played both this afternoon and tonight, while the balkline contests have been reduced to 200 points. Peterson's work is worthy of comment. It's Charley's misfortune to be paired with Hoppe and such an arrangement doesn't permit of the champion's opponent coming in fer much giory. Peterson isn't a "dub" at either balkline or three-cushions, but Hoppe simply smothers him with class, as he would anyone else:

"That today's stock market should

"It is also reasonable to ascribe the market's attitude to belief that, by concentrating all facilities of the concentrating all facilities of the ocean-carrying trade on transportation of men and munitions to the European war front, the war itself will be shortened.

"Continuance of a flourishing trade with neutral countries is an important matter to our commercial status, now and hereafter, and to our position in international finance. But is also clearly superseded, even in its dis clearly superseded, even in its bearing on the financial situation, by the importance of fighting the war to an early finish, and this proclamation means, beyond anything else, that America will be stripped for the fight.

"It is somewhat premature to conjecture what the precise commercial and financial effects of the new pol-icy will be. It is not yet clear how far our ordinary commerce will be in-terfered with. The War Board's explanatory statement emphasises the fact that the proclamation does not mean embargo on exports or prohibition of imports, but regulation of both.

"Our exports during 1917, to countries outside of the European belligerents exceeded in value $2,000,000. United M being land trade, will not be interfered with.

"Just how far our outward and inward trade of nearly $2,000,000,000, with South America and Asia will be curtailed, cannot easily be conjecttured; much of the imports are necessities, and the ships which bring them will naturally carry back our exports. Furthermore, pressure from

The influences which brought about the sharp advance in the 4 per fent war bonds today, were not entirely clear. At all events, the finanial community seemed to dismiss the idea that the recovery of 1½ per cent from the week's lowest price was brought about by revival of peace brought about by revival of peace hopes.

"Today's movement was perhaps better explained as being in anticipation of the issuance of the next loan at a higher rate, the present issue to be convertible into such new bonds. The first issue, bearing 3½ per cent, went through a similar movement on the eve of the second loan, though in that case the parallel was obscured by the fact that the 3½ s were wholly tax-exempt, and therefore possessed a value apart from their conversion rights.

"Today's recovery in the 4's, however, was probably in part a natural reaction from the several declines of Solar Refining Co.

Fision rights.

"Today's recovery in the 4's, how-fever, was probably in part a natural reaction from the severe decline earlier in the week, which carried the price down to $94.70, yesterday.

"That decline was apparently due, in part, to the desire of the banks to compel repayment of some of the loans of clients which had been contracted in November to finance the bond purchases.

"In some cases the banks refused to renew the loans at 4 per cent and raised the rate to 4* per cent. Such increase in the rate was contemplated by the Federal Reserve Board, as a means of hastening the liquidation of loans secured by the bonds.

"Whether this expedient should have been used within 90 days of the loan flotation, with the result that some borrowers felt constrained to be decided in individual cases.

"The banks might have pointed out that they are now called upon to make heavy investments in the Treasury certificates.

"Prices on the Stock Exchange moved upward very steadily during the day in many cases overing a range of 2 or 3 points. Such reactions as occurred from time to time were not extensive.

"Shares of the steel companies and of various munitions makers were leaders in the advance, with substantial gains in miscellaneous industrial stocks.

FLONZALEY OUARTET PROGRAM IS DELIGHTFULLY RENDERED

sidered the most austere and cerebral form of music, became very human and engaging at the Sheldon Memo rial Auditorium last night, under the hands of the Flonzaley Quartet, consisting of Adolfo Betti, first violin; Alfred Pochon, second violin; Louis Bailly, viola: and Iwan d'Archamtwo leading chamber music organizations in the country, and it has for 13 years comprised the same personnel, with one exception.

The program began with Haydn's Quartet in D Major, a work of the composer's ripest powers, instinct with the geniality and humor characteristic of his gifts. The performers revealed their amazing unity, almost like a four-cornered telepathy a surprising richness and fullness tone: and a liveliness of spirit which turned the classic into something vivid and stirring.

The single movement given from Schumann's famous A Major Quartet-the adagio molto-made one performed, with such intensity of feeling was it interpreted, and so moving was its concentrated beauty. It was followed by Dvorak's Quartet in F Major, usually known as "American." which is one of the most suc ten. It was composed in 1893 at Spillville, Io., and is a little sister of the same composer's popular "New World" symphony. As in the larger zonetta was played.

The newcomer in the quartet is Bailly, taking the place of Ugo Ara.
